ADDRESS

Welcome to the 14th Ghana International Book Fair under the theme: "Growing the Knowledge-based Economy through Reading." This is an audacious theme that captures the national aspiration of making our citizens the engine of growth. In the knowledge economy, the labor force is highly literate, well-trained and is considered the most critical national asset and the source of a nation's competitive advantage. This labor force is not only educated (having degrees on paper), but analytical (problem solving), creative (innovative) and computer literate (capable in handling data, developing algorithms and simulated models, and innovating on processes and systems).

The acquisition and proper use of knowledge by a majority of the citizenry should therefore be seen as the catalyst and connective ingredient for national growth and development in this knowledge economy.

This year's book fair is planned to have something for everybody. Firstly, we expect our visitors, especially parents, teachers and students to take advantage of the massive discounts for books at the stands, to stock up on school supplies and to make sure finding books on school lists doesn't become a nightmare any longer because they will be found under one roof. Educators, Principals and Heads of schools will find on display, different options and alternatives of curriculum, teacher resource materials and school replenishments. For our industry players, we hope that the fair serves as a critical meeting place to transact intra-industry business between publishers and booksellers, writers and illustrators, booksellers and librarians. It is also a platform to build strong and lasting relationships.

We also welcome our international friends from far and near. The book industry is undergoing tremendous transformation that challenges the traditional methods and systems that have been the mainstay of the business for a long, long time. One of the enduring factors of this change is the transaction of book publishing business across continents. We hope that the opportunity accorded us by this fair will help cement existing relations as it develops new ones.

A book fair is a time for celebration of those individuals whose creative enterprise makes books the expression of our unique cultural heritage. The Atukwei Okai's, Ama Atta Aidoo's, Ayi Kwei Armah's etc., have blazed the trail and demonstrated to a new generation of writers that there is a world out there waiting hungrily to welcome our creative outpourings. Finally, when all is said and done, we plan to use this book fair to focus our national attention on ways to explore our country's preparedness for the tremendous opportunities brought by the advent of knowledge-based economy. This book fair is also intended to show how reading competency and literacy will help citizens to navigate the new knowledge-based society for individual well-being as well as national development.

We respectfully welcome you all to the 14th Ghana International Book Fair.

The book every Ghanaian must read!

We recite the national anthem everyday. Now here is the book that explains all the three stanzas of the anthem!

- a literary-style interpretation and commentary;

- evoking patriotism, tolerance and fellow-feeling;
- packed with great stories, exposition and lively narratives.
